China is Australia s largest trading partner, but just recently reaffirmed its strategic alliance with the U.S.

Yet I must admit to growing doubt regarding the viability of achieving strategic stability.

The visit included stopovers in Canberra and Darwin, the two places most pertinent to a new bilateral defense arrangement, and a speech in which Obama reasserted U.S.

In peace-time, they serve as a powerful deterrent.

require the Navy to concentrate its relatively small number of personnel rather than improving redundancy the Anglo-American tradition of sea-power: sea-control dependent on ever larger surface combatants remains the dominant

In this regard, large, nuclear powered attack submarines the Virginia or Astute class, for example, which are fast, quiet, comprised of mature technology and limited only by the endurance of their crews would be ideal.

Using a development model similar to that which Japan has used to produce the Soryu Class from the Oyashio boats, this would rely on building new boats from technology that had been demonstrated and matured in successuve upgrades to the existing Collins fleet.

Geopolitically, this should give Australia more room to move.
