facing America s Asia-Pacific allies in an age of shifting strategic balances.

based on an evolutionary design upgrade to the Collins.

MondayDec192011 Q and A: Australian Defence by Raoul Heinrichs | Monday, December 19, 2011 |

Marines doesn't mean much in operational terms, but it's symbolic of Australia's early enlistment in a much more adversarial U.S.

In the meantime, the chief purpose of Australian grand strategy should be to defer that decision for as long as possible.

and capabilities should Australia invest in? Culturally, the Royal Australian Navy is an heir to Submarines are, in effect, Australia's first line of defense.

That decision isn't necessarily irreversible, but since some initial design choices will need to be made soon to avoid a capability gap as the Collins Class is phased out, it seems likely to be decisive.

In its most controversial form, this argument contends that the enlightened self-interest of Asia's major states should be harnessed towards forming a concert of powers, an institutionalised strategic order echoing that of Europe in the nineteenth century.

It would also demand a major overhaul of the administrative foundations of Australian defense policy, which is in a quite parlous state at present.
