Japan, Taiwan, South Korea, even the United states each finds itself in the similarly peculiar position of being economically enmeshed with its major strategic competitor.

For many Australians, all of this is good news.

Babbage has spelled out some of the costs and risks associated with his two least preferred options: off-the-shelf submarines, most likely from a European supplier such as Germany, France or Spain lack an optimal level of range, endurance and speed.

a major upgrade of its surface fleet, with plans for three Air-Warfare Destroyers, two massive

The basic ingredients, among other things, would involve: plenty of land-based air-power; a large, robust submarine fleet; advanced mine-warfare capabilities; a constellation of satellite, maritime surveillance aircraft and land-based radar; and, to the extent surface combatants remain secure and cost-effective, a fleet of Fast Attack Craft armed with high-speed anti-ship missiles.

Babbage acknowledges, constrains Canberra s ability to even discuss, much less pursue the option.

President Barack Obama to Australia? Do you feel it was a success from an Australian viewpoint? Should Australia be allowing U.S.

In this regard, Air Independent Propulsion systems will be a salient consideration.

to the region, not as a hegemon, but as a regional power with vested interests in offsetting the excesses of China s legitimate influence in East Asia.

That would mean allowing others to do the balancing on our behalf, preserving the best possible relations with each major player without over-committing to any thereby minimising the risks to ourselves of being dragged prematurely into conflict or intense competition.
